CODE COMMISSION WANTS EXTENSION

MEMBERS WANT APPROPRIATION OF TWELVE THOUSAND DOLLARS TO COMPLETE WORK.

Guthrie, Okla., March 8.—The angry and disaffected members of the code commission who, to quote Representative Durant, "have been fighting among themselves like cats and dogs," got together this morning and formed a treaty of peace among themselves and an alliance against their enemy, the legislature. The purpose of this action is to get the legislature to extend them time to finish the compilation of Oklahoma laws and to appropriate $12,000 to pay them for so doing.

The members of the code commission agree to work in harmony in future and to finish the big work of preparing a code of laws in a rush. This good resolution being adopted, the name was communicated to the legislature.

It is understood, however, that the legislature is still inclined to their original purpose of discharging the code commission and let the supreme court have some one finish the job. The reconciliation of the members of the code commission is understood to have been presented to a recent caucus of the democratic senators together with a request for $12,000 to pay for the job and that the senators were almost unanimously opposed to granting either more money or more time, and intended sticking to its original conclusion. This conclusion is embodied in a resolution by Senator Thomas which has passed the senate and is in the house to discharge the code commission, file all their work with the secretary of state and have the supreme court elect a man to complete the codification.

The Oklahoma code commission was appointed by Governor Haskell by direction of the 1909 legislature and began work April 1, 1909. The legislature allowed them until Dec. 1, 1909, to complete the work. When that time came, however, it developed that instead of a code of Oklahoma laws being finished, three members of the commission, J. E. Thomas, W. E. Brownlee and J. H. Paves had split off from Chairman Harris of Oklahoma City and Secretary J. E. Day, and neither faction had made a code.

Miss Mayola Mills has just returned from Dallas, where she has been for the past two weeks getting ideas of the new spring styles. She is now ready to make new Easter dresses.

SANTA FE BACK TO OLD FARES

YOU PAY THREE CENTS TO RIDE AS YOU PAID BEFORE CONSTITUTION WAS ADOPTED.

H. D. McColom, ticket agent in this city for the Santa Fe, has received a supply of tickets and receipts for the installation of the three-cent fare. He has instructions to sell all tickets on intrastate business, beginning tomorrow, at three cents a mile. Each purchaser of a ticket will be given a receipt for the excessive fare, which will be refunded to the purchaser in the event the railroad company loses its litigation and is forced to go back to the two-cent fares. On all interstate business the same fares that prevail now will be kept in force until April 19, when the three-cent fares will prevail on those sales also. To illustrate the manner in which the sales will be made the purchaser of a ticket to Oklahoma City will be charged three cents a mile while the purchaser of a ticket to Gainesville a point out of the state, will have the advantage of the two-cent fare as far as the state line, until after the 19th of April.

Police Court Happenings.
There were two drunks and two cases of disturbing the peace in police court today. The parties charged with disturbance, were a man and wife who had "differed" about some matters, and the husband was breaking up the furniture and doing some wonderful stunts, until he was stopped by his wife. The husband received several bruises and scratches in the battle, but the wife came out unharmed.
